Candidates Selected In Victoria

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, Ald. J. Donald Smith and Mrs. Lydia Arsens will represent Social Credit in Victoria at the Sept. 19 provincial election.

They were chosen in that order, ahead of six other nominees, as 259 delegates to a nominating convention in the Crystal Garden struggled through a complicated voting procedure for more than four hours last night.

As the votes were taken, delegates stopped to listen to Premier Bennett's radio speech announcing the election.

As the meeting ended, Victorians candidate Ald. Smith predicted that "we will have a minimum of 40 seats after the votes are counted."

Each of the nine candidates was eligible to contest each of the three positions. Three ballots were required for the first, and even after the third, Mr. Chant was only chosen on the suggestion of Ald. Smith.

Two ballots were required to fill each of the other positions. Alderman Smith defeated Mrs. Arsens, and Mrs. Arsens defeated Waldo Skillings for the other.

Meeting began with the election of Noel Murphy, B.C. Social Credit League president, as chairman. Throughout the long proceedings, there was no prolonged argument against any of his rulings.

Nominees were named in this order—Mr. Chant, Mrs. Arsens, former mayor Claude Harrison, J. D. Johnson, Alderman Smith, Elmer McEwen, Mr. Skillings, A. L. Merriam and Archie Browne.

Ferry Wright, former M.L.A., was nominated but declined because he is a provincial government employee.

'Cabinet Calibre'

During nominators' speeches, Mr. Shaw called the ex-mayor "a man of cabinet minister calibre," while Mr. Bantfield said Alderman Smith "will sweep aside the Gregories and the Mayhews."

Highlights of nominees' speeches:

Mr. Chant: "The campaign will be largely on the basis of the government's record—what we've done, what we're doing and what we propose to do. Victoria is going to see great things—our object is to make Victoria the most beautiful capital of all Canada."

Mrs. Arsens: "I have been criticized and censured—those who have done so have done it without facts. They knew not whereof they spoke. Never have I made a statement in the legislature or on the public platform that I have had to withdraw."

Mr. Harrison (26 pounds thinner because of a scientific diet): "You are in a cause which is a crusade. You are not in an ordinary political fight. You are carrying a banner in a crusade for proper government."

Mr. Johnson, Victoria Social Credit association president, pledged to work for higher old age pensions, higher pay for civil servants and homes at "under $10,000 with low interest rates."

Alderman Smith: "I want to join a government that has done more in four years than previous governments have done in 40."

Mr. McEwen, unsuccessful SC candidate in Victoria in 1952: "Governments before never had the faith and trust that this government has. Only by faith and trust can you have responsible government today, tomorrow or 10 years from now."

Mr. Skillings, unsuccessful SC candidate here in 1953: "The great problem facing our country is our youth. The provincial government must make a stand. If elected, I will vote against Sunday sport."

Mr. Merriam, Victoria SC association officer, urged that the $10,000,000 promised for Victoria beautification should be spent to raise old age pensions and assist the handicapped.

Filling the first position, delegates eliminated all but Mr. Chant, Mrs. Arsens, Ald. Smith and Mr. Skillings on the first ballot. Mr. Skillings was eliminated next, then Mrs. Arsens and Alderman Smith suggested that Mr. Chant be chosen.

Filling the second position, delegates ousted all but Alderman Smith and Mrs. Arsens on the first ballot, then chose the alderman. For the third position, only Mrs. Arsens and Mr. Skillings were left after the first ballot.

Vote totals were not disclosed. Following the premier's announcement, Mr. Murphy said:

"We have the finest organization in the province but we must work. Let us make sure we are elected not with a majority of four, but where we have to be our own opposition."

B.C. ELECTION DATE SEPT. 19 PREMIER CONFIDENT OF WIN

Large turnout of Victoria Social Credit members last night selected Works Minister W. N. Chant, Mrs. Lydia Arsens and Ald. Don Smith to carry the Sacred banner in the Sept. 19 provincial election. Shown here

Basic Policy Given

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Legislative Reporter

A provincial election will be held in British Columbia on Wednesday, Sept. 19.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett last night ended months of speculation by asking the people for a further four-year mandate for his Social Credit administration.

He said he was confident the government would be returned.

The government will go to the people with its record of debt reduction, highway construction, extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, and other progressive policies of the past four years, Mr. Bennett said.

FURTHER MANDATE

It will ask the people for a further mandate in which to continue the progress which has brought industrial expansion and a booming economy to B.C.

"I ask you to vote for progress, not partisan politics," declared the premier.

Premier Bennett yesterday called on Lieutenant-Governor Frank McK. Ross, who dissolved the provincial legislature and also proclaimed the act establishing four additional seats, making a grand total of 32.

At dissolution, Social Credit held 28 seats; CCF, 14; Liberal, four; and Independent, two.

Social Credit was first elected as a minority government in 1952 and was returned as a majority administration in June, 1953.

"Since the last election there have been four fully-fledged sessions of the legislature—the normal life of any government," declared the premier.

MORE ACCOMPLISHED

"In that time we have done more than was accomplished in the days gone by in the lives of two parliaments," he said. "I am confident that these policies we have brought into effect . . . are approved generally by the people of this province," he continued. "From their fruits shall ye know them, and I think the people like the fruits of this government."

Premier Bennett described the extension of the PGE as the "jewel in this government's record."

In choosing Wednesday, Sept. 19, as election day the premier took the bare 35-day minimum period after which an election can take place after dissolution.

Premier Bennett said the reason for this minimum period being chosen was so "an election would not disturb the business life of this province."

He said his mind was finally made up to call an election this fall due to the rash of nominating conventions being staged by the various political parties.

"And I might say we want a new mandate now because of the new ground we intend to cover in the next session," he said, referring to the proposed legislation which will pay $28 of every homeowner's tax bill.

NEW FACES

Premier Bennett refused to say whether he anticipated his government would receive an increased majority at the polls but did predict there "will be a few new faces" at the next session.

He said his government has accomplished what have been termed "political miracles" by sticking rigidly to basic principles.

These basic policies, he said, were:

- The individual is the most important creation of God's on this earth.
- The major function of any government is to bring to the people the results they want in the management of their affairs.
- Security alone is not enough, there must be freedom with security.
- Anything which is physically possible and desirable can and must be made financially possible.

'Vice-Hatchet Man'

Democrats Blast Nixon

CHICAGO (UP)—The Democrats ripped into the Eisenhower-Nixon team last night as they got their 1956 convention rolling in the midst of a furious Harriman-Stevenson battle for presidential votes.

Off to a sedate start at an afternoon session, they tossed a rouser in traditional Democratic fashion at a night gathering in the midst of a furious Harriman-Stevenson battle for presidential votes.

But the real battle for the coveted presidential nomination was being waged behind the scenes at convention hall and in downtown hotels where backers of Adlai Stevenson and Gov. Averell Harriman battled for votes among fence-straddling delegates.

After an hour and 45-minute afternoon session, the convention erupted at the night meeting as Tennessee Gov. Frank G. Clement sounded the Democrats' "1956 call to political arms" with a no-holds-barred attack on President Eisenhower and Vice-President Richard M. Nixon.

Clement denounced Nixon as the GOP "vice-hatchet man" who accuses Democrats of "30 years of treason" while Mr. Eisenhower "peers down the green fairways of indifference."

Beads of perspiration rolled off Clement's face as he tore into John "Fiddling Foster" Dulles and other GOP leaders. Clements, a firebrand orator, pulled no punches in his attack on Mr. Eisenhower, and more especially, Nixon.

He called Nixon "the most politically intemperate individual in the history of modern politics. His attack left no doubt that the Democrats will make Nixon a prime target of the 1956 election campaign.

Reuther For Adlai

CHICAGO (AP)—Walter Reuther, the Auto Workers' Union chief, came out formally Monday night for Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Each mention of Nixon's name brought boos.

Delegates jumped up in a standing ovation for Mr. Truman when Clement roared that the greatest asset of the convention was that the former president was on hand to remind the Democrats to "Fight, Fight, Fight."

Mr. Truman, who threw his convention support to Harriman, made his first appearance at the hall at the night session accompanied by Mrs. Truman. There was a ripple of applause which grew in volume as the delegates and galleries gradually became aware of his presence. The organist played the Missouri waltz.

Shortly after the Truman ovation, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who later addressed the delegates, entered to thunderous applause and took her seat in a box directly opposite the Trumans. Mrs. Roosevelt, who is backing Stevenson, nodded amiably at them.

Overhanging floor hoopla was a bitter battle between Stevenson and Harriman for votes when the convention gets around to balloting for a presidential nominee Thursday night.

The latest United Press tabulation indicated first ballot votes showed Stevenson with 527 of the 698 votes needed for nomination. Harriman had 238½; Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) 55, and Sen. Stuart Symington (Mo.) 42, another 218½ were scattered among other candidates. Still in the uncommitted column was a critical bloc of 294 votes.

Harriman had gained 27 votes since he won Mr. Truman's support Saturday. Stevenson had picked up 13½ votes in the same period.

'Is Bennett Afraid?'

Timing Baffles Opposition Chiefs

Premier Bennett is afraid of the people of B.C., Opposition leader Robert Strachan declared last night when he learned of the calling of a provincial election.

"When a premier with a majority government calls an election two years before he has to, it makes me wonder what he's afraid of. Is he afraid the Sommers case will come into the open?"

"Is he afraid of the unprecedented patchwork of some of the northern mining roads coming to light?"

"Is he afraid that next year the people will have found out that he's achieving only half of what he claims?"

Mr. Strachan said the CCF party is full of hope that its program, not written by one man, not "a fly-by-night scheme," would appeal to the electorate.

"We are more united than ever we have been before," he said. But in the Social party, he said, he saw signs of disintegration.

"We're geared for a fight," the Opposition leader asserted. "We have no big slush fund. But we have good, honest workers—and an honest worker is worth $20,000 in any slush fund."

"It's up to the people if they want a government that thinks only of today—a get-rich-quick government—or a government that looks to the future."

"There's a crisis in the affairs of B.C.," commented Arthur Laing, Liberal leader. "But what is it?"

"Premier Bennett has asked the people of B.C. to give him a mandate in just 37 days. These are typical blitzkrieg tactics unfamiliar to the people of B.C. His speech was full of hints of urgency. There is something definitely wrong."

Mr. Laing urged the premier to tell the people of B.C. what the crisis is that the province or the Social party faces. The government, he said, did not need to call for a mandate until 1958. "So why now?" Mr. Laing repeated.

"Mr. Bennett has given us the absolute minimum of time," commented Oak Bay Liberal P. A. Gibbs. "It seems somewhat lacking in the spirit of cricket—but we'll be ready for him."

"Most names are already on the list; we keep a perpetual list which is always being revised," he said.

Mr. Hurley declined further comment.

If your name is not on the voters' list in the next seven days you will miss out on the chance to vote in the provincial election Sept. 19.

Chief electoral officer F. H. Hurley said early today that voters' lists must be complete by Aug. 21.

"Most names are already on the list; we keep a perpetual list which is always being revised," he said.

Mr. Hurley declined further comment.

Marilyn's Time Beaten

Girl Whips Lake Ontario

BRENDA FISHER

TORONTO (CP)—Britain's Brenda Fisher Monday set a record for swimming across Lake Ontario, completing the 32-mile stretch in 18 hours, 50 minutes.

By so doing she became the third person to cross the lake and cropped two hours and six minutes from the previous best time set by Toronto's Marilyn Bell in 1954.

Marilyn, then 16, made the distance in 20 hours, 56 minutes. John Jaremey, 38, a Toronto steamfitter, swam the lake last month, taking 17 minutes longer than Marilyn.

Brenda slipped into the Niagara River at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., at 10:56 p.m. Sunday night. During the last quarter-mile of her grueling marathon the elements conspired to rob the sturdy 28-year-old fisherman's daughter from Grimsby, England. But four-foot waves, lightning, thunder and torrential rain could not stop her.

A giant wave washed her in at 5:37 p.m. and then, apparently little the worse for wear, she boarded the accompanying craft, Dreamboat II.

"I feel fine, thank you," she said over the ship's radio. "I'll have my bath now."

Her coach, Herb McNally, also from Grimsby, said he is "very proud to have trained the Queen of the English Channel, the queen of the Nile and now the queen of Lake Ontario."

She holds the women's record of 12 hours, 43 minutes for the Channel, which she has swum twice, and last April set a women's record of 12 hours, 11 minutes for the Nile swim.

Woman Killed

Near-Hurricane Slams Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A brief storm packing almost the punch of a hurricane tore through Toronto Monday night. It was over in minutes, but it left the northern suburbs looking like a disaster area.

One death was reported. Mrs. Edwin Bradley, 34, was electrocuted when she picked up a power line that had fallen across her hedge.

The storm struck at the height of the evening rush hour, aiming its hardest blows at residential north Toronto, North York and Leaside. Trees were flattened, electric power was cut off and traffic reduced to chaos.

Winds hit 100 miles an hour in the north-central section of the city, the weather office reported.

North Yonge street between Eglington avenue and Toronto's northern limits was littered with fallen trees and shrubbery, broken glass from store windows and smashed signs.

Fish Contest Entries Win Trolling Outfits

Frank Nuttall, 1231 Tattersall, and Sherman Stanley Dawdy, 798 Fairview road, are the two hidden weight winners for July in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest. They win salmon trolling outfits, including Sea King spring salmon trolling rods, aerial reels and 600 feet of 25-pound test nylon line.

Mr. Nuttall, a well-known Saanich inlet angler, caught a 7.7 pound prize. He was using a strip leader and weighed in at the Anchorage boat house.

Mr. Dawdy won his prize with a 6.13 spring weighed in at Holder's boat house and caught on a Mac's Spud plug.

One of the salmon trolling outfits was donated by the Western Speedway.

TRIPLE WINNER
Mrs. Frances Francis of Courtenay won her third King Fisherman Prince crest in July by catching a 4.8 lb. salmon in Comox Bay.

In June she won crests for a 2.5 lb. spring caught at Little River and 7.2 coho caught at the same place.

Mrs. Francis now only has to catch a crest-winning trout to win the $25 bonus award offered by The Daily Colonist to the first person to win four crests.

But she will have some competition. Several anglers have won two crests. E. H. Glover of the RCAF Station at Comox won crests in July for a 27-lb. spring and an 8-pound coho.

MP Hints

RCMP Used in B.C. For Political Ends

OTTAWA (CP)—Veiled charges that provincial administrations may be using the RCMP for political purposes were made Monday in the Commons.

George Nowlan (PC—Digby-Annapolis-Kings) said it is possible, apparently, for a provincial government to employ the RCMP for political purposes or for provincial investigation for which the Canadian taxpayer should not be asked to pay.

He apparently was referring, during study of the justice department estimates, to an investigation of the Sturdy-Sommers case in B.C. requested by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Justice Minister Garson informed Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) the federal government would pay the costs of such an investigation which, Mr. Winch said, involved sending an RCMP inspector to the United States many times.

Mr. Winch asked that, in view of the fact the federal treasury pays the cost, the results of the investigation be tabled.

Mr. Garson said he could not do so. Under the terms of the police agreement with the provinces, a provincial attorney-general could ask the RCMP to conduct an investigation which he could ask of a provincial police force. The federal government did not take advantage of the agreement to exert any influence on the administration of justice, a constituent.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, brush denture teeth. Just follow these easy rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your denture teeth are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "denture breath".

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only... Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter. D-113

Fishermen who begrudge the effort involved in catching live crickets for bait can buy a quart of them, by mail, from a Georgia cricket farm.

We learn that it takes fifteen days for cricket eggs to hatch, eight weeks for the insects to grow to bait size. We note, too, that the breeders where they live about in 85° temperature, hatching up chicken manure, are made of aluminum. But we confess we're not too surprised. It simply means that this busy metal has found still another use in the busy breeding industry — this time providing clean, warm, pleasant quarters for aristocratic crickets. You see aluminum everywhere these days!

Trapped French Die

ALGIER, Algeria (UP)—Four French soldiers staggered back to safety yesterday and told of an Algerian ambush in which 22 of their fellow soldiers were killed, 20 wounded and possibly 19 captured.

A fast-moving French motorized patrol quickly retreated after hearing the soldiers' story and killed 13 rebels near Tizi-Ouzou, 65 miles east of Algiers. The heavily-armed rebel band, trapped by the patrol, broke and ran under a barrage of machine-gun fire.

French suffered no casualties. Authorities said security forces killed eight more rebels elsewhere in the country.

The ambush against the French soldiers dealt one of the worst blows in the 21-month-old Algerian war. It brought to 60 the number of Frenchmen killed or wounded by nationalists in the last six days near Algiers.

The survivors said they were led into a trap by an Arab peasant near Beni Slimane, 62 miles south of Algiers. He rushed into a command post yesterday with word that a band was prowling around his hut village.

The French troops moved to the spot and sighted a small rebel band. It turned out to be the bait.

Arabs Warn West

'Don't Use Force'

LONDON (AP)—The Arab world warned the West Monday against using force in the dispute with Egypt over the Suez canal.

And the British Labor Party demanded that Prime Minister Clement Attlee's government will not attack Egypt.

Britain pressed a build-up of air, land and sea power in the Mediterranean despite the warnings.

Delegates of 22 nations were gathering in London for Thursday's conference, arranged by Britain, France and the United States to consider international control of the canal. Egypt and Greece refused to attend.

In Washington, the state department reiterated complete accord with Britain and France that there should be "international means to insure the practical and efficient functioning of the Suez canal."

COMPROMISE SOUGHT

Behind the scenes there was a feverish search for a diplomatic compromise that would enable both President Nasser of Egypt and Eden to save face.

Other developments during the day:

1. A British government spokesman said some British troops are being pulled out of Germany in view of the Suez crisis.

2. In Damascus, a government spokesman said Syria has told Britain and the United States it might be unable to protect American and British oil pipelines across Syria against sabotage from "an angered people" if the West attacks Egypt.

3. In London, Maj. Saleh Salem, Egypt's former propaganda minister who arrived by air to report the conference for a Cairo newspaper he edits, said that Egyptians are prepared to blow up the canal if their country is invaded.

4. Salah Osman, special Egyptian envoy to Indonesia, said in Singapore that Egypt is ready for any eventuality, including "the dynamiting of the Suez Canal," if necessary.

5. Two flying boats began ferrying wives and children of British employees in the zone to Malta en route to Britain.

LONDON (UP)—Communist East Germany announced last night it would try to crash the West's Suez conference here as an uninvited guest. It appeared to be the first step in an expected Soviet attempt to parry to blow up the canal if their country is invaded.

Hurricane Heading Straight for Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Betsy bore down on Florida's eastern "gold coast" Monday night from the east-central Bahamas at a clip that could bring the storm's fringes ashore near Palm Beach by morning.

Betsy's position was given in a U.S. weather bureau bulletin at 9 p.m. EDT as a short distance southeast of San Salvador Island, 430 miles from Miami. That was 30 miles closer to the south-Florida metropolis than the storm's location at 6 p.m.

The bulletin termed Betsy "a small but extremely severe" hurricane with 120-mile winds churning around a small area of its centre.

The storm was holding to its steady west-northwest course, moving at 18 miles an hour.

As Betsy bore down on Florida, millions of dollars worth of property damage was reported from Puerto Rico in the wake of the hurricane's overland slash there.

Civil defence officials said at least 21 towns, with populations of 8,000 to 80,000, were hard hit. Hundreds of Puerto Ricans were homeless. A single death was reported in Puerto Rico.

The east coast area, watching the storm since early Monday morning when it ripped across the thinly populated islands of the southern Bahamas, quickly began preparations.

At Jacksonville, the navy ordered the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt and two destroyers to go to sea. It began evacuation of almost 400 planes to inland points.

No hurricane has hit Florida since one buffeted Miami in October, 1950.

Reds in CBC 'Mash Brains' Soared States

OTTAWA (RUP)—Social Credit leader Solon Low challenged Revenue Minister J. J. McCann in the Commons last night to uncover Communists in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation who were "mashing the brains" of the Canadian people.

He declared that a two-hour program on television last Oct. 1 was "patently Communist" in which the Communist press of Canada and the United States exulted.

The program, "We Shall Not Be Moved," told the story, Low said, of a "Smith Act criminal in jail in the United States because of her Communist activities in the U.S."

"This sort of thing is serious enough that the minister (McCann) ought to track down who it was who made available the (CBC-TV) facilities... and fire that man... and see that it doesn't happen again," Low said.

"You'd better be looking inside the ranks of the CBC to find who is selling Canada down the river."

Terrorists In Cyprus Blast Yacht

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Terrorist frogmen Monday blew up a 63-ton yacht owned by Capt. C. W. B. Worthington, captain of the guard of British Governor Sir John Harding.

Five crew members aboard at the time of the explosion in Kyrenia harbor, north Cyprus, escaped uninjured when the yacht settled bow-first in the harbor floor.

Worthington, a member of a wealthy British brewing family, held a regimental party aboard the yacht Saturday night. He was not on board when the frogmen struck Monday.

Georgios Efthymiou, 19-year-old Greek Cypriot, was acquitted Monday by a special tribunal in Nicosia on a charge of murdering a British teacher here last June.

A four-day Greek-Cypriot general strike, proclaimed throughout the island to protest the hanging of three Greek Cypriot youths convicted of terrorism, ended Monday.

'Smash You to Pulp,' Correspondent Told

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says but the threat of war with Britain its staff correspondent in Cairo was told by officials close to Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, president of Egypt, that "we planned to smash you to a pulp and dump your body on the Canadian Embassy doorstep" for trying to see deposed Gen. Mohammed Naguib.

In a Cairo-dated dispatch Star reporter William Stevenson quotes the officials as saying:

"Your attempts to see Naguib almost got you beaten up... Canada would not go to war over you."

"With so much tension your punishment might have proved provocative... We shall still get our revenge when there is no further risk of retaliation."

Refunding Steps

IMPARTIAL examination of the debt handling program of the Dominion in the last few years would suggest that it is a refunding rather than a retirement one. Increase in the bank rate to 3½ per cent, or by two-thirds in 12 months, means whereby the banks were obliged to reshuffle their short-term assets; the new savings bond issue currently announced on a sliding interest scale of from 3½ to 4 per cent; and other steps are obviously woven together in one policy. It is more difficult to see, however, that this policy is an anti-inflationary one of or by itself. There has been no significant reduction of federal expenditures, and debt refunding is not debt repayment.

Finance Minister Harris' debt program for 1956 is an impressive one by any standard. Before the year ends he will pick up all that is outstanding of four separate issues totalling $1,092,563,530. In sequence the operation will involve two issues met and two still to go. On June 1 Mr. Harris reached out to call $54,703,000 of 3½ per cent bonds that still had 10 years to run before maturity. On July 1 he met whatever was outstanding on a $400,000,000 2½ per cent loan due then. On Nov. 1 he must pick up the first savings bonds, issued to $87,860,550 at 2½ per cent. On Dec. 15 comes the last step, the $550,000,000 short-term refunding issue at 2½ per cent which is less than two years old.

As the next three years are also onerous with maturing loans including the larger Victory bond issues, there can be no minimizing the formidable task confronting the federal treasury. At the same time the Dominion seems to have passed from a declared retirement policy to a purely refunding one. The calling of loans 10 years before they are due on the one hand, and the reissuing of two-year loans at higher interest rates are puzzling manoeuvres, unless the treasury has some profit by doing that. Meanwhile juggling with interest rates is increasing the cost of doing business generally, a process in which the Dominion itself also suffers in that it is forced into stiffer interest coupons.

Viewing the picture in relation to this country's economy and its place in the world, Canada has done well in handling a considerable wartime debt load. It would be a pity, however, if repayment of the outstanding issues were to give place permanently to a refunding program; which would leave the debt still to pay and at a higher price. Whether national or private, debt postponement is a punitively costly business.

Impinging on Canada

A CANADIAN political convention, a quiet affair in any event in comparison with similar gatherings across the line, could come and go without the slightest ripple in the United States. A national election itself would not arouse much greater interest. American newspapers being extremely insular in their contents and Canadian radio or TV being unheard of by the majority of the American people. The reverse will be in striking contrast this week as U.S. television, to which so many Canadians tune their sets as a matter of regular routine, exploits the Democratic Party convention being held in Chicago.

Since the chief purpose of the convention is to choose a candidate for the November presidential election, the highlight of the American political scene, it is natural that the latest medium of mass communication, TV, should be employed on an even greater scale than ever before. Advance reports in fact indicate that the proceedings of the convention itself will be arranged to suit its television presentation. In a sense the broadcast will take precedence over anything else. American political conventions at any time are marked by enthusiasm and color introduced to what sometimes seems an extravagant degree, and this year's gathering promises to be even more ebullient than ever.

As to the serious business in hand former president Harry Truman has thrown a bombshell into Democratic ranks by backing the nomination of Mr. Averell Harriman, the governor of New York state. This is directly at odds with the candidature of Mr. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate of four years ago, and whatever else it does for TV viewers it sparks the drama and excitement that seem assured at Chicago this week. There will be the equivalent of a battle royal for the prized nomination. When it is all over, when the pick to oppose President Eisenhower is made—a somewhat forlorn hope probably unless the president's health is a factor that unsettles the forecasters—Canadian TV addicts will be well aware of how U.S. political parties go about their business and considerably enlightened about American affairs in general. One regrets there is not the kind of reciprocity of interest that would enable Americans to know more about Canadian affairs.

Liquor for the Indians

SINCE British Columbia was the first province in Canada to open the beer parlors to native Indians, it is to be expected that the government will act on the enabling legislation approved by both houses of Parliament which would remove all discrimination against Indians as far as liquor is concerned. The amendment to the Indian Act leaves it to the discretion of the provinces to allow Indians to buy all types of liquor, though in the case of reservations permission may depend on the results of plebiscites among the Indian bands.

If experience in British Columbia is any guide, the reform is unlikely to change Indian drinking habits for the worse. Records of the Indian Affairs branch of the provincial government show a steady decrease in drunkenness ever since the Indians were first allowed to frequent beer parlors. As for hard liquor, it has never been too difficult for an Indian to get what he wanted, so long as he could pay the bootlegger's price. Permission for liquor to be bought openly from the government stores should end degrading back-alley transactions and put the bootlegger out of business—and good riddance.

There should be no illusions about this privilege doing away with protection of the Indians against a white man's vice. The ancient prohibition was hypocritical. It was intended far less to protect the Indians than as a weapon of conquest. That it should have been continued to the present day has been a rebuttal of claims of racial equality in this country. It has stigmatized the Indian as a second-class citizen, incapable of controlling his own behavior.

Legal access to hard liquor will not do the Indian any more good than it has done his white brother; but liberalizing the law will at least enable him to buy liquor that is true to label and at the official price.

Interpreting the News

Large and Disunited Area

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

THE Arab question is 1,300 years old. For more than a dozen centuries the Arabs, their civilization cradled in the scorched Arabian peninsula, have conquered and been conquered until the tides of history scattered them over a vast area now loosely known as "the Arab world."

Today the heart and centre of that world is Egypt, and Egypt has set the western world's nerves on edge. Nationalization of the Suez canal, focus of the immediate crisis, is not the only Western worry. Arab ambitions, tempers, frustrations and hatreds have spread ferment from the Persian gulf to the Atlantic.

Egypt's President Nasser, central figure in the latest crisis, calls this whole area "the Arab nation." His spoken aspirations make it plain he considers Egypt the leader of an Arab world which one day will be united.

It is far from united now. It is not really one world but at least four, linked loosely by ties of common religion and the Arab language. Nasser speaks for pan-Arabism, and Arabic-speaking peoples are pulled strongly toward the dream. But national, racial, geographical and ideological rivalries keep the Arab lands disunited.

The 10,000,000 Arabs who inhabit the Arab peninsula are an isolated world to themselves. Only the thin veneer of a modern civilization, induced by the flow of foreign oil royalties, covers centuries-old feudal systems.

The so-called fertile crescent—the area formed by Syria, Lebanon, Iraq, Jordan and Palestine—cradle of modern civilization and the great Western religions, is yet another world of some 12,000,000 Arabs.

The almost 30,000,000 Moslems of Egypt and Sudan, occupying a big patch of Northeast Africa, are a third world, often described by fertile crescent people as more African than Arab. And about 20,000,000 people who call themselves Arab occupy Morocco, Tunis, Algeria and Libya in North Africa. Their religion is Moslem but in the mists of centuries many of the cultural ties with the eastern Arabs have been lost.

All these countries have their own cultures, some tied to Europe. Many Arabs are Christians, particularly in Lebanon and Egypt. Some are Jews.

The new Egyptian constitution calls Egypt an integral part of "the Arab nation," meaning the vast area in which at least 70,000,000 might be described as Arabs are linked by religion and language.

"... of shoes and ships—and scaling wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WHEN this writer was at school there was a classmate who was rather a don. He seemed to absorb knowledge without trying. Invariably he sat in the top seat of the class. Arithmetic, grammar, history—there were no social studies then—they all came alike to him.

He was the examination master's delight. There was another boy who plodded dully at the bottom. He never came near to winning one of the periodic contests we had—first prize a sixpence—in the two years I knew him. Poor lad, he couldn't spell for toffee, his drawing was atrocious, and his geography away below par.

He was the examination master's despair. I wonder what these two boys grew up to be. If I am to believe a theory often expressed—that dullness at school is no criterion of ability in after life—then the smart boy is probably digging ditches and the dullard is a university professor.

I fancy however the reverse is more likely to be true.

I have always been somewhat sceptical of those stories of famous men who were laggards at school. They are akin to the ads about muscle men who are prepared to turn you into an Atlas in 10 easy lessons. Have you ever noticed the coincidence that cities most of these Samsons as having been weedy specimens in their youth? Almost as though a delicate childhood was a sure passport to Herculean prowess in maturity.

Hard to swallow, really. So are some of the yarns which imply that such-and-such a brilliant man was a backward student as a schoolboy. True enough many an infant prodigy burns himself into obscurity by the time he is a young man, but I have the notion that as a rule the boy who is smart at school stays smart when he grows up.

It is encouraging to the plodders however to think that their brilliance is merely delayed and that in good time it will burst forth in all its plenitude and bring them fortune.

So perhaps we should not throw cold water on the idea. As a matter of fact a while back I came across two examples which seem to prove my fancy wrong and lend credence to the theory that one shouldn't judge by what goes on in a classroom.

School reports of two well-known personalities came to light which were surprising in their contents.

Some of my readers may remember G. K. Chesterton, the jolly panjandrum of letters of a decade or two ago. He dripped erudition in poetry, drama and criticism. He cooed wit and paradox.

Yet here is what his schoolmaster wrote of him when Chesterton was 18 years of age, an age surely when he should have been beginning to burp. His Greek prose and verse were below standard, his composition futile, his brain was slow although imaginative, his French was careless and his mathematics very poor.

The other celebrity who did not measure up well in the estimation of his teacher was no less than a recent visitor to Victoria, the renowned "Monty" of Alamein. No one could think of him as a blockhead yet when he also was 18 years old his schoolmaster said he was backward for his age and should be more industrious.

The boyish Montgomery was also weak at French, he wrote poor essays, drew only fairly, was backward at mathematics, and was "too easily satisfied with his work."

Shades of Aldershot, El Alamein and Normandy!

Perhaps I should reverse my notions about dull boys and brilliant men. Come to think of it, there is Churchill too, who sat in the same form at school for years.

Reports from Ottawa

IT IS ironic that the first application of the new "time-saving" rules of the House of Commons should produce the second longest parliamentary session in our history.

Members of the Commons had hoped that the new rules would put a six months' ceiling on the time they have to spend in Ottawa each year. To attain this result, they agreed to 30 and 40-minute limits on speeches, depending on the occasion; limitation of debates and other time-saving changes in the rules.

Yet for all that this session has lasted 150 sitting days, or seven months' elapsed time. Only the session of 1903 was longer—155 days—and in 1903 there was no time limit on speeches or debates.

Only hours short of prorogation, little of the government's legislative program still lacked final parliamentary approval. Forty-nine public bills were introduced by the government—a modest enough total compared with the 61 passed last year.

The fact that the session is about a fortnight longer than that of 1955, in spite of fewer pieces of legislation and the new rules, reflects the meatier proposals the government made this year, and the opposition's strong antagonism to some of them. On both scores this has been a pre-election session.

Yet when you analyze what parliament has accomplished in a positive sense since Jan. 10, you find that on the legislative side you can count only perhaps a half dozen major achievements, plus four examples of what I'd call Class B legislation. Most of the government's program dealt with relatively unimportant administrative matters.

Contrary to what you might think as a result of the pipeline fireworks, parliament's most solid achievement was approval of and the provision of tax money for the government's spending program—for defence, Colombo Plan aid, and all the myriad services the government performs.

There was important new legislation in three major fields:

1. Resources development: the pipeline financing plan.

2. Federal-provincial relations: the plan for sharing federal tax revenues with the provinces, and for the federal treasury to share provincial relief costs.

3. Agriculture: the twin acts to insure bank loans to hard-pressed wheat farmers, and to authorize the government to pay abnormal wheat storage charges.

The Class B legislation consisted of statutory recognition of the principle of equal pay for equal work, regardless of the worker's sex, in national industries; the extension of unemployment insurance to cover fishermen, the provision for increased federal contributions to Trans-Canada Highway costs, and the reduction in the maximum interest rate allowable on small loans.

But these most important acts—building blocks, you might call most of them, in the Canada of tomorrow—do not fully indicate the achievements of this session. Special committees of parliament studied capital and corporal punishment and lotteries; scientific research, and the National Capital Plan. And backbench MPs performed their valuable but volatile function of airing countless grievances and making countless suggestions to the government.

The session was ridden with politics and passion. That aside for the moment, the MPs did a good job. But they took too long to do it.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

AN acquaintance of mine who makes at least two voyages to Britain and Europe each year and after one trans-Atlantic flight by air, scorns that method as mere package freight, has a boundless love of the comforts and delights of the big ocean-going ships, a love which is not damped even by such disasters as the Doria. He is a great authority on ships, ships' companies, stewards, and all who travel by sea. And one of the interesting things he says is that a laughing man or woman is seldom if ever seasick.

"Laughing people, people who laugh easily and gaily," he declares, "just don't get seasick. It is the quiet, melancholy type that suffers most. A cynical man is seldom seen after the first day out. I can stand in the gangway lobby and pick the sourpusses who are going to be invisible for the next several days."

"A type that delights me, and out of whom I get a great deal of fun on a voyage, is the grave and self-important big shot—who, with his wife or family, with all their ostentatious and expensive baggage, comes aboard with the grand air. They are usually accompanied on board and seen off by chauffeurs, male secretaries, second vice-presidents and other toadies, and they make quite a scene about being shown to the best de luxe cabins; watching, with lordly attention, the activities of the stewards, awaiting the attentions of the purser and chief steward and expecting any minute the captain or at least the first officer to come and acknowledge them."

"They sit at the captain's table, or near it, and the first night and the next day out, before it gets dirty, they move about the ship with the lofty air, drawing themselves aside from the commonality. Boy, that's the seasick type! There isn't a laugh in them. They stick pretty close to their cabins, which is a pity, because there is nothing funnier, to my mind, than a seasick tycoon. When, peaked and wan, they do come up for a breath of air in their deck chairs, swaddled in their rugs and trying to keep their eyes closed, it is fun to be one of the hale and hearty breed that, with wind-flushed cheeks, marches merry and loud round and round the deck, laughing loudest when passing the lofty sufferer."

"You're a sadist," I accused my friend.

"No, I'm a laughist," he asserted, showing me his tickets for a September crossing, which is likely to be rough.

Billy Rose is going behind the Iron Curtain to observe Russian show business. While there he might try to verify rumors that some Soviet spy stole the specifications for Abbot and Costello, and gave them to Bulge and Krush.

A convict who failed in an attempt to escape from Alcatraz, admitted later that he didn't know how to swim. This should be a lesson to all small boys. Learn to swim — you never know when it will come in handy.

The Guerrilla Pattern

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

MARSHALL Zhukov of the Soviet Union has exchanged letters with Mr. Hanson Baldwin, the distinguished military editor of the New York Times, on the probable nature of another war, and the question whether modern weapons render large armies obsolete. It is amazing how conventionally soldiers and politicians still think of war. The actual wars of the present and the most probable wars of the future are fought neither with huge armies nor superduper weapons. They are fought by bands, rarely in uniform, using rifles, machine guns, homemade bombs, land mines, even knives, and the strategy of terror. They are guerrilla wars, before which the strongest military forces are helpless.

Traditional armed forces require enormously complicated organization. Guerrilla fighters concentrate on disorganization. It is always easier to disorganize than to organize.

Such a war was fought in Ireland at the beginning of the 1920s. The British forces vastly outnumbered (and could vastly outshoot) the Sinn Feiners. But they did not know where and whom to shoot, nor how to tell a friend from an enemy. British Tommies met their death under roadside bushes, or while walking out with a seemingly friendly girl. The Irish forces won.

In the war between the Greek Communists and nationalists, the national forces enormously outnumbered the Communists. They had heavy foreign support and the majority of the Greek population on their side. Yet the power of the guerrillas in disorganize and terrorize was such that it took many months to clean them up, and it would have taken longer had Yugoslavia continued to keep open her borders for their refuge.

The Palestinian war did not open between the Arabs and the Jewish agency, which was already a shadow state with an army and two armed hands, the "Irgun" and the "Stern Group." The war started between this shadow-state and Great Britain, the legal mandatory power. The Jewish population was then roughly 650,000. The British eventually had 100,000 troops in Palestine. But the capacity of Jewish guerrillas to disorganize was so strong that eventually the British gave up.

Great Britain and France, at this moment, are fighting guerrillas in Cyprus and Algeria. In each case Western armed forces are overwhelmingly the stronger. But they are making little headway against the disorganizing power of their opponents.

New, in the Suez crisis, battleships and paratroops are being dispatched to stand by in case Egypt refuses acceptable terms. In such circumstances, war is a possibility. But what kind of war would, in every probability, be fought by Egypt and her Arab sympathizers?

However the initial clash might occur, it is predictable that the war would follow the guerrilla pattern.

A lesson of guerrilla wars is that it is practically impossible to win them, unless they are civil wars in which the sympathies of the population are divided—as was the case in Greece. This would not be the case in Egypt and the neighboring Arab countries. The only state and population in the area that would support the Westerners (for a large price of territorial expansion) is Israel, whose participation would further inflame Pan-Arabism.

The vulnerability of organized armies would be enormous. The oil pipelines traversing hundreds of miles, of desert could not be protected against saboteurs. The "foreigners" could not employ one reliable Arab. The Arab fellah and bedouin can live and fight under conditions impossible for a Westerner.

Nobody would gain anything from such a war, except the countries that kept out of it and could eventually offer their good offices to end it. Since guerrillas fight on their own soil, they disorganize and sabotage their own economies. Thereafter, also, it is not easy to demobilize such bands and return them to normal productive life. No form of war is more demoralizing, in the exact sense of the word. President Nasser's problems would be multiplied.

However tempers may flare, and fears conjure up developments that have not yet occurred, there is a common world-wide interest shared by Egypt in reaching an equitable and reasonable settlement, which, like all enduring settlements, cannot be dictated.

Letters to the Editor

Parochial Pride

Victoria needs a new city hall? Saanich and Oak Bay a new municipal hall.

Residents of outside municipalities would help to build a city hall because most of their income is spent in the city. Businessmen of Victoria living outside and employees in Victoria owning homes in adjoining municipalities, would pay for new municipal halls.

With rising costs of administration, public services and major works, taxes have been rising for years in Saanich and Oak Bay. Taxpayers don't need to be told that. They will continue to rise in relation to increasing density of population, and works and services commensurate therewith.

Is it not time the taxpayers throughout Greater Victoria took matters in their own hands, stopped listening to a handful of men with parochial pride in their own little bailiwicks, or a personal interest in the maintenance of the status quo, and demanded a single efficient administration for the area with 110,000 residents?

On a comparable basis, Toronto would have over 40 municipal councils. No wonder the Ontario provincial government got fed up with the inefficiency, procrastination, bickering, and self-interest of a small army of Tom Thumb administrators.

It is reasonable to assume that one integrated department would make fewer errors than four separate bodies.

During the depression they couldn't find money for anything. Now you would think money flowed around like water (doing its best to get down to the lowest level). We want expansion, progress. Expect to pay for them. But we don't want wasteful expense, or inefficient planning.

Social Democracy

Re Frank Snowsall, Aug. 12 Colonist, page 17: when the CCF drops all pretence at socialism and adopts an out-and-out social democracy platform fitted to the needs of all people, then and only then will they receive the support of the multitudes and secure the solution to "MacMillan type" millions. Even as we "allow" others to exist, so shall we be "allowed." It works both ways.

Is It Real?

Premier Bennett has produced a Sacred play in a stage setting of his own contrivance: a propaganda booklet designed to impress the public with feats of grandiose magnitude. Costs to the province of these feats are not stated, but we are taken on a tour de force that tests credulity, if one is to face facts.

It is interesting that the principal actors are Sacred (obviously B.C. did not exist prior to their coming). When it transpires that defectors and their ilk find solace in Sacred ranks, historic ability is not surprising. Yet, is Canada thus served? "Paper" money ad lib spills over the pages of this Sacred booklet, but is this money real?

It would appear that the assets of this province are being swamped under a gathering momentum of borrowing and spending that could not possibly ensure a vote for the Sacred.

The Changing Tides

Max Lohbrunner is one of the old school who battled tides and the elements in the straits. His livelihood and perhaps his life depended on his knowledge. Who then is best to judge and plot the changing tides than a man like this. A man with a high-powered engine under him is entirely different and one small swimmer in the water is different from a boom of logs.

Sister Mary Modeste Rites Slated Today

Requiem Mass will be said in St. Ann's Academy chapel this morning for Sister Mary Modeste, RN, 75, who died in St. Joseph's hospital over the weekend.

Born in Central Falls, Rhode Island, she entered the sisterhood of St. Ann as Emma Herbert, at the Mother House in Lachine, near Montreal, when she was 19.

In 1901 she came to St. Joseph's hospital where she remained on the staff until 1917. TINY HOSPITAL

In those days St. Joseph's was a tiny hospital on Collinson.

She worked with such outstanding medical men as Dr. Jim Helmcken, Dr. J. C. Davis, Dr. R. L. Fraser, Dr. Hermann Robertson, Dr. H. J. Wasson and Dr. O. M. Jones.

After some years at St. Ann's Academy, Sister Modeste went to St. Ann's hospital in Juneau, Alaska, in 1923, where she remained until 1932 as chief operating nurse and pharmacist. MUMOR, DEVOTION

"The whole North grew to love Sister Mary Modeste for her cheerfulness, her sense of humor and her devotion to the sick," said Provincial Superior Mother Mary Luca.

In recent years Sister Mary

Modeste had lived in retirement. She chose the name Modeste after the first Roman Catholic Bishop of Vancouver Island, Rt. Rev. Modeste Demers, who brought the first sisters of St. Ann here in 1888 to start schools, orphanages, missions and hospitals.

Swim
Control Federal

Any form of control over marathon swimming in the strait of Juan de Fuca is a matter of federal government jurisdiction, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

"These are international waters, therefore it would be under federal jurisdiction," said the premier.

He made the statement when asked if the provincial government was considering instituting some form of control over strait swimming following the Marilyn Bell swim Friday.

Premier Bennett said as yet the government has given no study to the matter and that no official representations have been made.

Meeting

B.C. Boom

Premier Bennett yesterday predicted that further industrial expansion would take place in British Columbia as a result of his meeting with a group of industrialists in Vancouver Saturday.

He refused to name the industrialists but said one of the men was a top official in the Aluminum Company of Canada.

"There will be a widening and a broadening of our industrial development so we can have a more balanced economy," said the premier. "From general discussions I can say there will be further industrial expansion in our province."

He refused to elaborate.

Good Day for a Duffer

Mrs. Irene Jaundrew certainly didn't perform like a duffer Sunday as she took first and third places in the Duffer's Derby, which was open to those who weighed in salmon during qualifying competition in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby but failed to gain a spot in the main fish-off. Mrs. Jaundrew, pictured with the Ming's Kitchen trophy, landed these 22½ and 22-pound salmon. See story on Page 7.—(Chevron's Studio photo.)

Braves Ease Redleg Threat; Gain 5-1 Triumph, Pad Lead

Milwaukee Braves have staved off, temporarily at least, the threat posed by Cincinnati Redlegs and now have only the Brooklyn Dodgers as an immediate worry.

Braves made it three in a row over the slugging Reds last night, after losing the first game of a four-game series, by easing to a 5-1 triumph behind the effective pitching of rookie Taylor Phillips.

Victory left Milwaukee four games ahead of Cincinnati and two games ahead of the Dodgers. It was the only game played in the major leagues Monday, the Dodgers being rained out of their scheduled game with New York Giants.

SECOND VICTORY

Phillips, a 23-year-old southpaw up from Wichita, won his second in a row, pitching eight scoreless innings after rookie Frank Robinson tagged him for his 26th home run in the first inning.

Sunday's action saw Lew Burdette stop the Reds for the third time in a row this season as Milwaukee took an 8-2 verdict. Milwaukee knocked out Brooks Lawrence, who lost his fifth game in his last seven decisions. Dodgers stayed right on the pace by trimming Philadelphia

Norman Sets Course Record For Lead in Qualifying Round

EDMUNDSTON, N.B.—Unpredictable Moe Norman, one of golf's most colorful characters, shot a record four-under-par 69 Monday to take a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the 36-hole qualifying rounds of the 52nd Canadian Amateur golf championships.

Pressing the defending cham-with a 71. Jack Ellis, Vancouver, and Arthur Peterson, Fitchburg, Mass., were fifth with one-under 72s.

SIX BREAK PAR

Only six of a starting field of 107 were able to break regulation figures on the tree-lined, 6,810-yard, par 37-36-73 Edmundston layout.

Norman, a stubby, blond, 26-year-old Kitchener, Ont., shotmaker, who has won 11 of 20

tournaments in Canada this year, mostly in his own neigh-hood, broke the previous competitive course record of 71, set five years ago. And he might have been lower but for a little tough luck.

On the front nine he scored four birdies, but also bogeyed three holes.

MISSED EAGLE

On the third he missed an eagle putt by a whisker and a birdie putt on the fourth when he left the stick in the cup and the 35-footer hit the pin but failed to drop. On the sixth he spanked a nine iron to within six inches of the cup and on the eighth his eight iron was only four feet short of the flag.

He needed only 12 putts to get around the back, finishing with five one-putt greens, none of which were more than eight feet. In addition, he missed birdie putts of less than 10 feet on the 11th, 12th and 13th holes in what could have been a phenomonal round.

After today's 18 holes, the low 64 will qualify for match play, beginning Wednesday and winding up Saturday, in the amateur championship proper.

Bryan Copp, an 18-year-old redhead from Vancouver, held a one-stroke lead at the end of 18 holes of the 36-hole Canadian junior championship. Copp, who was third last year, went out in 37 and home in 39 for a 71.

Rae Milligan Ties For Medal Honors

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG (CP)—Barbara McIntire of Toledo, Ohio, and Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., Monday-shot 75s to tie for medal honors in the 18-hole qualifying round of the Canadian women's Open golf championship.

The two will head the two groups of 16 players each who go into match play today in the championship flight. Players with scores of 88 and better qualified for the title hunt.

Six of the eight Americans entered in the week-long classic made the grade in the qualifying round, including Pat Lesser of Seattle, who tied defending champion Marlene Stewart of Others were Judy Bell of Miss McIntire, runner-up in the recent U.S. Open at Duluth, and Miss Milligan, runner-up in last week's Canadian Close, shot identical nines of 39-36.

An eagle three on the 501-

Fund Boosted $5,000

Mounties Win, 8-5, In PCL Exhibition

It was almost like old times as professional baseball returned to Royal Athletic park last night. Almost, but not quite.

The crowd of 3,591 customers that paid to watch Vancouver Mounties beat Portland Beavers 8-5 in a Pacific Coast League exhibition was reminiscent of some of Victoria's brightest days in the now-defunct Western International League.

However, the baseball on display as the clubs casually moved through nine listless innings revived fond memories other than those of pre-game batting sessions.

Although the fans received full value for the almost $5,000 they paid for their tickets, since the full amount will go to boost the Victoria Conquer Cancer Fund, they were considerably short-changed in their diamond entertainment.

ALUMINUM PRICE HIKE

Aluminum Company of Canada has increased its price of aluminum, both at home and abroad by one cent a pound. The move is in line with the action of the U.S. producers who made a similar increase last week following settlement of a strike in the industry.

Sewer Report Contradicts Consultants

A report submitted to Saanich council by municipal engineer H. D. Dawson bluntly contradicts findings of a consulting engineer who attacked the municipal tender for completion of the sewer program.

Both reports will be studied and debated at a special council meeting Wednesday night.

In a 14-page report released yesterday, L. K. Templeman, Kluit of Canadian-British Associates, estimated the cost of completing the 80-mile sewer network at $1,049,284.71, or $218,362.68 higher than the only tender received for the project — from the municipality's engineering department.

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE

In answer, Mr. Dawson submitted that "Canadian-British Associates suffers from a lack of knowledge of our conditions and from no effort having been made to inquire into phases of our designs or conditions of contract."

"From a careful study of the report... from the engineering, installation and contracting standpoints we find the report of no practical value," he said.

Mr. Kluit was asked by council last month to investigate the municipality's bid to advise whether unit prices scheduled were similar to general rates submitted by local contractors for similar work.

In accounting for the disparity in the two estimates, the consultant pointed out that a private contractor's bid would be "firm." In other words it would be bound to the price of the tender.

The corporation's bid, he said, need not be firm, and could be increased to suit additional needs.

"A contractor's bid is bound to be greatly in excess of costs which Saanich would have to pay anyway, whether costs were in fact incurred or not," he said. "Otherwise no contractor would remain in business."

"We consider the documents (submitted) are extremely lucid and their meaning clear," answered the municipal engineer.

The firm scored the engineering department's drawings and specifications as "abbreviated." Such detailing was not required, said Mr. Dawson. "Furthermore our simple method eliminates endless arguments."

"We, Saanich practicing municipal engineers, deemed this excessive detailing unnecessary, time consuming, conducive to argument and opposed to council wishes," he said.

City Trio Near Death

Plucky Youth Saves Storm-Tossed Chums

Cool heads and quick decision saved the lives of three Victoria boys whose boat capsized in Lower Campbell lake.

They came back home with their story Sunday. Fred Latham, 17, Kenneth Ken Comer, 17, Ambassador, and Denis Barker, 16, 965 McBarr.

But it wasn't they who related it.

Sgt. James Smart of Esquimalt police told The Daily Colonist:

"If ever a boy deserved a Royal Humane Society medal it is Fred Latham."

Sergeant Smart and his son, Ronald, 20, eventually succeeded in rescuing Latham's two friends, but to Fred they gave the credit for bringing word of the boys' plight and guiding them to the overturned boat, being blown steadily into the centre of a storm-tossed lake.

The three 17-year-old survivors pined together this story for The Colonist. They were camping on Lower Campbell lake, about five miles above Ladner, and Tuesday evening they were fishing in a sudden gust of a rapidly rising wind, their boat overturned. This was about 7:30 p.m.

Fred and Denis were well aware their friend Ken couldn't swim and they had taken the precaution to carry two inflated inner tubes with them. But, in the emergency, one was found to be deflated, the other was punctured when the boat capsized.

They hung on and tried to propel the half-submerged boat to shore. "We weren't far off," said Fred. But they found, quickly, the wind was carrying them out into the lake. And they tried.

"Somebody had to stay with Ken," said Dennis. He was elected. And Fred struck out for shore.

It was a hard swim for a tired lad. Then there was the race through the brush to the camp and Ken Comer's car, in which the boys had travelled.

"I'm not much of a driver," Fred admitted. He had never driven before, as a matter of fact.

But he set out along the tricky lakeshore road. Fortunately, he met Mr. and Mrs. Ron Smart within a few miles and they led him, racing to the Smart camp and Sergeant Smart's boat.

Meanwhile Ken and Denis were drifting farther and farther into the lake. It seemed like a long time since Fred had left them and the cool darkness closed in. It was hard to keep clinging to the upturned boat hour after hour. Finally, at about 10:30 p.m., they saw Sergeant Smart's flashlight groping toward them. They had been in the water three hours.

"Once we spotted them it was simple enough," said Sergeant Smart. "We left the boat and got them to shore and they seemed none the worse for it."

The boys wouldn't cut short their holiday in spite of loss of most of their fishing gear. They came home Sunday "just when the fishing was getting good."

JAMES ROBERTS

Roberts Enters Fray

Fight for the Social Credit nomination in Saanich turned into a three-way struggle yesterday when former Social federal candidate James Roberts threw his hat in the ring.

Mr. Roberts, an assistant manager in the home appliance department of the T. Eaton store, will seek the Social Credit nomination for the riding at present represented by John Fialle.

Also seeking the nomination is J. Whitworth Stanbury, a vice-president and secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Social Credit League.

The nominating convention will be held Friday.

Mr. Roberts, a former president of the Victoria Lions Club, and the Victoria Electric Club, ran third to Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes in Esquimalt-Saanich during the 1953 federal election.

He has been a member of the Social Credit party for the past five years and is a past president of the Saanich Social Credit Constituency Association.

Cabinet Passes Power Project For Crofton Mill

Provincial cabinet yesterday authorized construction of a $690,000 power line which will supply the proposed B.C. Forest Products pulp mill at Crofton.

NANAIMO—Pronunciation of this city's name isn't so obvious as it may seem at first, Rotarians were told recently.

Joe Kneen, telling about a tour to the Old Country, said he was invariably introduced to English Rotary Clubs as "Mr. Keen from Nannymor in Canada."

The name actually is a corruption of the old Indian name of "Snee-Ny-Mo" meaning the collection of Indian villages which once formed the hub city.

NANAIMO—A sailor allegedly overcame from the Royal Canadian Navy, 18-year-old William John Wilson was remanded in custody for sentence after pleading guilty to obtaining a car from Meyers Holland Motors here by means of a bad cheque.

Wilson, who recently arrived from Ontario, showed a salesman a savings account with $2,200 credit. He made out a cheque for $975 saying that he would bring the car back the following day for minor adjustments. He did not return but was later checked by police. He was charged with violation of the Highway Act.

Sentence will be handed down Aug. 22.

DUNCAN—Funeral services were held here Saturday for Mrs. Margaret Ford, 72, Duncan resident for the past 21 years who died Thursday.

Surviving are her husband, F. W. Ford; five daughters, Mrs. E. Edlund, Honeycomb Bay, Mrs. E. Simpson, Hazelton, Mrs. W. Niekensky, Salmon Arm, Mrs. James Carrek and Mrs. Annie Williams, Duncan, a sister, Miss M. J. Scott, Vancouver.

CUMBERLAND—K.C. York, retiring after 15 years as manager of the Cumberland branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, was presented with a leather travelling bag as a gift from his staff.

Mr. York, who has made many friends in the district, plans to spend much of his time hunting and fishing.

LADYSMITH—The gladiolus show has been postponed until Thursday, due to the death of the society secretary, William Ross.

Show will be held in St. John Anglican church hall from 7:30 to 9 p.m. tea will be served.

DUNCAN—The Jaycees, sponsors, have issued a special appeal to residents of Duncan and district to give good support to a blood clinic being held here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Ross Hamilton is chairman of the clinic and aims at 800 pints.

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C.—Michael Gehegan, first man to swim Seymour Narrows, postponed his attempt Sunday to swim the 32 miles from Campbell River to Mission.

He was scheduled to start at 4:30 a.m. but a strong wind prompted postponement.

Touring Father, Daughter

Know Asia, Its Way of Life, Indian Adventurer Advises

CHANDRAKALA SHARMA

By COURTNEY TOWER
A sweet-faced young girl with a seriousness and expressiveness that seemed, at least by Canadian standards, to be beyond her 16 years, Chandrakala Sharma is charming. The seriousness in Chandrakala's expression is amazing.

Her excellent English has been learned in Russia and India, with her father on a world motorcycle tour Sept. 19 last year.

Gopial Sharma, 39, and Chandrakala set out then to tour the world to learn the customs, beliefs and ways of life of others and to "impart to those we meet some knowledge of Asia."

"I am interested in the students and the ladies of the countries," the young girl in the flowing sari said. "In the students and the young people, the future of any country and from the ladies I can learn much about their activities and the way they live."

The friendship of women who can bring countries nearer to each other.

Chandrakala's social worker father estimated they had covered 25,000 miles on land and 7,000 on sea—visiting Ceylon, Burma, Thailand, Cambodia, Viet Nam, the Philippines, China and Japan—before arriving here.

They go to San Francisco and New York next and then in about two months to Ottawa, on to Halifax and over to England.

The little he has seen so far of Canadians leads him to believe they have "an inclination to learn many things about other countries—but also the need for much more knowledge than they have about Asia and its way of life."

Mr. Sharma finances this venture by writing for Indian publications. It's sufficient, he says, because "an adventurous man does not require much money for his adventure."

"To know each other better, and understand each other, people must visit between each other," he said. "We are trying in our own way to help bring the East and West together."

They hung on and tried to propel the half-submerged boat to shore. "We weren't far off," said Fred. But they found, quickly, the wind was carrying them out into the lake. And they tried.

"Somebody had to stay with Ken," said Dennis. He was elected. And Fred struck out for shore.

Oak Bay Socials Choose Aug. 20

Oak Bay Social Credit Association will choose a candidate at a nominating convention at 8 p.m. Aug. 20 in St. Mary's hall.

Expected to be in the running for a chance at the single seat, now held by Liberal P. A. Gibbs are Alan E. Bigelow, Arthur Knapp, C. T. Overman, Mrs. Vera Pipes, Ken Oliver and Kenneth C. Murphy.

But A. C. McFadyen, first vice-president of the association, said other "heavyweights" may enter the contest for nomination in Oak Bay, which is the top prize for Social Credit in B.C.

Mr. Sharma finances this venture by writing for Indian publications. It's sufficient, he says, because "an adventurous man does not require much money for his adventure."

"To know each other better, and understand each other, people must visit between each other," he said. "We are trying in our own way to help bring the East and West together."

"Somebody had to stay with Ken," said Dennis. He was elected. And Fred struck out for shore.

It was a hard swim for a tired lad. Then there was the race through the brush to the camp and Ken Comer's car, in which the boys had travelled.

"I'm not much of a driver," Fred admitted. He had never driven before, as a matter of fact.

But he set out along the tricky lakeshore road. Fortunately, he met Mr. and Mrs. Ron Smart within a few miles and they led him, racing to the Smart camp and Sergeant Smart's boat.

Meanwhile Ken and Denis were drifting farther and farther into the lake. It seemed like a long time since Fred had left them and the cool darkness closed in. It was hard to keep clinging to the upturned boat hour after hour. Finally, at about 10:30 p.m., they saw Sergeant Smart's flashlight groping toward them. They had been in the water three hours.

What's Cooking!

By Frances Thompson

Mid-Week Stew Really a 'Ragout'

Isn't it strange how a chance remark will start a train of thought? All she said to her husband was, "I wish I could make a stew like that." Actually, it was not a stew but a ragout—more or less the same thing but not quite. Then and there I was not inclined to tell her how to do it. Instead, I suggested she read the column this morning. It takes from four to six servings and does not need an oven. But a pan with a tightly fitting lid is a must. Having no name for it, let's call it...

MID-WEEK STEW

(4 to six servings)
One pound steak; 4 potatoes; 4 carrots; 2 onions; 1/2 pound bacon, optional; 1 cup liquid (water, left over gravy, tomato juice); salt and pepper.

Let's give credit where credit is due—it was a Frenchman who taught me this steak trick and it has never been forgotten. First, stretch the meat so that you can see which way the grain runs. Then cut the steak across the grain into little strips about half an inch wide and two inches long. He claimed that if you cut the steak with the grain, thereby getting long stringy pieces, the meat will be tough but by cutting it across it will be tender. The man is right but I don't quite see why, do you? Anyway, it works so let's continue to do it.

So having taken care of the steak in the aforementioned manner, peel and slice the potatoes rather thin. Scrape and slice the carrots. Peel and slice the onions. Put the bacon in bottom of a large pan. Arrange the thin slices of steak over it and season with pepper and salt. Cover with a layer of carrots and onions and put the potatoes on top of the lot.

Place the pan over medium heat and let the cooking get utes add the liquid and put on the lid. Cook it very slowly for about 1 hour and you will find the small amount of liquid has been absorbed by the meat and vegetables. You are out of luck if you are a gravy lover! But it's a meal in one pan and no extra saucepans to wash.

APRICOT BREAD PUDDING

(about 6 servings)

Three-quarters cup milk; 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; 1/2 cup sugar; 1 cup soft breadcrumbs; 1 cup cooked apricots cut up roughly; 2 tea spoons lemon juice; 2 eggs well beaten; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 6 apricot halves; a little grated nutmeg. Combine the first four ingredients and bring to boiling point. Cool and add apricots, lemon juice, eggs and salt. Turn into greased casserole. Top with apricot halves and sprinkle with nutmeg.

The fresh apricots now in season are ideal for this pudding. Place the casserole in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven 350 degrees until firm, about 1 hour. It can be served either hot or cold.

Will the reader from Cowichan Bay who was so interested in Chinese cookery kindly get in touch with me? Stupidly, I have mislaid her letter.

REDUCE IN SECONDS. If hips and abdomen have inched out of line this summer, try this experiment: stand profile to a mirror; elevate chest; contracting buttocks slightly, draw hips down and under body so that pelvis tips upward; pull in abdomen. What's the result? Flatter hips and tummy. I'll wager!

For permanent improvement, repeat routine 25 times daily—alternately performing and relaxing. At all other times, try to stand in performance position. It's the one that keeps a fitter after you've got it!

HIP REDUCING ROUTINES

You can diet until you become feather-light and still be hip-heavy. Reduction in the hip-line is assured only by exercise. For a set of quick and effective ones, send for my leaflet, Hip Reducing Routines. TB Aftermath Of Lost Love (BUP) Heroines of Victorian novels very often died when they were deserted by a lover. Now, health authorities in Scotland say the trouble may have been tuberculosis.

The Scottish health department issued a questionnaire to people attending a chest clinic. The answers showed many of the patients contracted tuberculosis after an emotional crisis. The commonest crisis among TB patients seemed to be a "break" or serious threat of break in a romance, engagement or marriage.

So persons involved in an emotional upset of this type should eat well and get plenty of sleep.

Claims French Styles Dreadful

BY DON LOPER

Written for the United Press
HOLLYWOOD—The other day a visiting member of European royalty dropped in at my Beverly Hills salon, and after she wrote out a delightfully flat small high-waisted large-sleeved numbers in Europe. I agree with one who said to me, "I never know whether European designers are dressing women or mannequins. Here a girl looks like a girl!"

She asked for her purchases, asked her in my typical candid fashion why she didn't buy her clothes in Paris or Rome.

"I never buy anything in Europe if I can help it," she told me.

I think her opinion of the fashions that come out of most of the European coutourier salons is shared by chic women all over the world. This year women are completely disapproving the so-called fashion pace-setters abroad. I know that most of the Hollywood stars haven't given them a second look.

I think the new French and Italian styles are dreadful. I don't know what they're trying to prove with those jazzed up overworked numbers, with nothing where it's supposed to be so that the wearer comes out looking like a freak. And those new hat styles are horrible. Horrible because you have to look twice to see if you know who's under them. They remind me of the old Mae West school of 1930.

What else do I see on the fall fashion scene?

I predict the stars will go on wearing the same things which they know are good for them alone. Marilyn Monroe will still stick to those bathos with the seam down the back and the sewed-in look. Her clothes are shockingly bad but she'll still get her message across, so who are we to argue with her?

June Allyson will still wear her young girl numbers with the Peter Pan collar and Claudette Colbert will be an older version of June.

Lucille Ball will wear anything that strikes her at any time, and what she can't wear she'll carry. Betty Hutton has given up that jazzy style now. She's marvellously chic with simple things made of beautiful fabrics. Irene Dunne and Grace Allen will be the fashion leaders with timeless gowns.

And Tallulah will dress only for the stage and wear her blouse and slacks, low shoes, and mink coat for everything else.

Even the European beauties, now flooding Hollywood are Martin, Pattern Dept. The striving for the American look Daily Colonist, 60 Front street They've had enough of the west, Toronto, Ont.

Bing's Elopement News Imminent

"HOLLYWOOD—News of the impending of Bing Crosby and Kathie Gray is expected momentarily. There's been a lot of quiet maneuvering with everyone sworn to secrecy.

Ava Gardner's settlement with Frank Sinatra makes up for all the heartbreak and hard times during their brief romance. Ava won't have to work again unless she wants to. Still no new man in her life.

The Portillo Rubirosa scare of the most devoted husband in town. Paula Goddard was recently hospitalized for a heart attack. The biggest laugh in London was caused by the story that Zsa Zsa Gabor and George Saunders were romantically engaged.

I'm sorry to report that in spite of all the optimistic huzzahs, Frank Sinatra's health, those who see him tell me he still has a long way to go for complete convalescence.

Do Killers' Lives Depend On Flip of Coin?—Winch

OTTAWA — Harold Winch, CCP member for Vancouver East, suggests that decisions of the justice department's remissions branch must be reached by a flip of a coin. "The conclusion was basically a number of recent decisions of Western Canada cases in which persons convicted of premeditated murder had their death sentences commuted in prison terms, while others who killed in passion or while drunk were hanged."

WASHINGTON — Eleanor W. Harris, mother-in-law of United Nations official Ralph J. Bunche, was found dead in his real estate office yesterday, his body bound and gagged and his wallet missing. Death was attributed to strangulation.

SQUAMISH, B.C. — A stipendiary magistrate arrested by RCMP was charged here Monday with theft of $40. Kenneth G. Kenworthy, 31, was remanded in custody until Aug. 22. The charge concerns funds of a logging company in which Kenworthy was a partner.

OXFORD, England — Jacko Cary, 67-year-old British author, says he is dying from an incurable paralysis. "But I don't want to alarm my friends unduly," he said from his bed. "I am not likely to die at any moment."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Ousted state auditor Orville E. Hodge pleaded guilty yesterday to pocketing $637,000 of the state's money and went to jail to await sentencing. Within the same hour, a conference in the state attorney general's office stripped Hodge of all his worldly goods.

DERRY, CONN. — Television's Ed Sullivan and Robert H. Frecht Jr., his son-in-law, were discharged from hospital Monday, a week after they were injured in an automobile accident. Sullivan was kept in hospital longer than had been expected because of a bronchial condition which developed.

MARCINELLE, Belgium (Reuters) — Rescue teams were attempting to bring to the surface Monday night the bodies of 80 miners found during the day at the 2,750-foot level of a disaster-struck coal mine here.

Authorities said at least "several dozens" of dead had been found at the level where 80 miners had been trapped when fire broke out in the mine last week. There was no mention of any survivors at this level.

Director of Belgium's federal mines administration Andre Van Den Heuvel, gave this news to a huge waiting crowd many of whom have kept their vigil since 270 miners were entombed here last Wednesday.

Mother of Seven Drowns in River

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Bernetta Clark, mother of six children, all under seven years, was drowned during the weekend in the Thompson river about four miles west of here.

The 32-year-old resident of Brocklehurst was seen struggling in the water Saturday by two unidentified boys. One jumped into the river and tried to rescue her, but he did not have enough strength to bring her to shore.

On a quiet Sunday near high noon, outside the church at Cross Creek, the man they called "The Fastest Gun Alive" faced the murderous .45 and the crucial test of his own manhood.

By PETER BRUTON

A unique B.C. resources atlas which will prove invaluable to school children, business men, sportsmen and university professors alike, will go on sale Sept. 1.

Nearly three years in the making, the 100-page atlas is the first volume of its kind ever to be published in North America.

It shows everything from the growth of population in B.C. to the best areas for skiing, fishing and hunting.

The project has been the work of the B.C. Natural Resources Conference. The atlas has 48 map pages with a total of 86 maps, all in full color.

There are 41 illustrated black and white text pages which face and describe the various maps.

"Each map provides a full evening's entertainment and education," said Dr. D. B. Turner, one of the men who has been instrumental in drawing up the atlas.

Two thirds of the maps are completely original.

Broadly speaking, the atlas is divided into three sections—geographical characteristics of British Columbia, resource characteristics, and explanatory notes.

Some of the ground covered includes relief and oceanography, landforms, geology, soils, weather, temperature, distribution of population, exploration, agriculture, fisheries, forestry, mining, power and energy, recreation, water, wildlife, manufacturing, and transportation.

Key men in the project sat as a committee of four—Professor John D. Chapman, of UBC, A. L. Farley, geographer in the department of lands and forests, Professor Richard E. Ruggles, of UBC, and Dr. Turner.

Altogether some 200 volunteer workers helped prepare the atlas, working in their spare time.

Once, when a picture of a ling cod had to be obtained by the next morning, Charles Guillet, of the provincial museum, arose at 4 a.m. and went fishing at Oak Bay.

By 6 a.m. he had caught a ling cod and the picture was on its way to the printers.

First printing of the atlas has been 10,000 copies of the three differently bound editions. There is an edition for schools only which will retail at $7.50 apiece; there is a home and business edition for $10, and a de-luxe edition for $15.

The conference is also selling, as a companion volume, the book "The Natural Resources of British Columbia" at $7.50.

In all cases postage and sales tax is extra.

Copies of the publications may be ordered from Dr. D. B. Turner, secretary of the B.C. Natural Resources Conference, department of lands and forests, Victoria.

Call Paid Off Premier Says

Premier Bennett's call to CCF members to join the ranks of Social Credit has paid dividends, he said yesterday.

"Lots of former CCFers are joining Social Credit, specially since the CCF changed its Regina manifesto," he said. "Liberals are joining us, too."

Premier Bennett last week called on CCFers to join Social Credit which supported social reform but not socialism.
